I have enjoyed playing the two Christmas pictures in this game but those are about the only two pictures I have really enjoyed. I gave it a 4 rating due to the graphics you provide, they are indeed outstanding. But in saying that how you hide objects and the difficulty to pick them up leaves me frustrated and sometimes screaming at my I-pad. Nothing frustrates me more than to have tapped on the object two or three times and then use a hint only to find it goes to the same place I was tapping. I also do not like to have to connect to social media to be able to complete a scene or rather a collection. I feel if you found all 5 items in the collection you should get the prize for collecting them not have to find or buy other objects to complete. I also think if you have looked for a fish in a particular picture it should remain the same fish each time not changing from a real one to a stone one or a picture of a fish, it is ok to have a different fish in each picture but it should remain the same in that picture. Also the cost gets too high as you go up in levels, my income does not change as I solve your puzzles. Some of the complaints go for some of your other games as well so I have to decide how many I can afford and which one please me the most. I will say bye to this one. As an experienced Hunter in these types of games I am sorely disappointed in this one. The amount of energy you are allowed lets you play one maybe two games before you're out of energy and have to buy more. The prizes you're supposed to get for completing a puzzle are nonexistent. At least 50% of the time you get nothing But I message saying "better luck next time". The puzzles themselves, while a good concept of having to complete a puzzle in order to open a puzzle, have made the objects you're supposed to find too small and too difficult to find so that you end up running out of time and then you have to buy something to help you complete the puzzle. The puzzles should be challenging, not completely impossible to complete without having to buy something. And everything you have to buy is way more expensive than whatever it is you have in your cash so you have to go to the store and buy more rubies or coins or something else. I understand making money. I'm an accountant and very pro business. But there ARE limits. This group is simply too greedy for my taste. Too bad because I tend to spend a few hundred dollars a month on puzzles I like. But I don't feel that I should have to spend a few hundred dollars every time I want to play a game. The creators need to wrap their heads around the concept of small profits over a lot of people. Coca-Cola has managed to become a multibillion dollar company by making $.02-$.03 on every can of Coke. I have been playing this game for several years now and I enjoy it. A couple of complaints though. When I first started playing every once in a while a crystal deal would pop up, 100 crystals for $1. That never happens anymore. Also I think it's way too difficult to earn ladybugs, the arrow for tree of dates room etc and when there's a new room, the new items to connect the prizes. I've been playing for over a week and have gotten very few pink bows and the other new ones. I don't think that the push to force players to spend a ton of money is fair. I buy things every once in a while but without the $1 crystal deal and long droughts of acquiring ladybugs and other items you need to search a room is very frustrating. Also back a while when the time ran out for the new room goals the special item would turn into ladybugs etc. and it was in the 100's for each. Like I said I don't mind buying things but it seems now that it's far too often and I'm getting very bored. I do like the new rooms to get something new to do. Thank you, I hope you will consider my feed back and make some minor changes.
