Carcassonne big box english rules pdf

I had a friend yesterday who brought carcassonne and we all had a lot of fun. I want the game, and it looks like he had a couple of expansions but we only use them for extra tiles, so we don't play rules of expansions. I see I can get the main game online for 25ish and I think it comes with rivers and Abbots. But also © I saw that I can buy the big boom building for a 44 but... © in Italian (my friend can print rules in English for me, so no ©) For what I say on TV, the big box seems to have better value, because many websites say "builders and traders" and the expansions of cathedrals are almost essential. Buying separately would cost more, but also © There are many other expansions, winged machines, etc., are good expansions?? I usually don't have much money, but for me I feel that the big box has a better value and just want to see if it agrees, because I am thinking of compiling it, I would like to know what you think. Hans im Gloria published unloadable rules (in English and German) for a collaborative variant of a player where the player (or a team) has to mark the maximum number of possible points. It follows the usual rules of the base game with some modifications: it only uses three sets of abhors (four abhors each in three colors), and optionally one abhor in another color as the curver. The scores on the scoreboard are initially placed in specific spaces. A pile with a third of the tiles © The friezes should be placed whenever there is an element not occupied (except fields). Only the sleeper(s) with the smallest number of points can mark a complete feature. The game ends when the player can't put more tiles in or can't put a mycorrhium in a lap (the set of meeples of a color is over). The final score © based on the number of repetitions placed in the picture. There are also new ways to score points, for example, marking a large city or linking roads to neighboring countries. The map is constituted by high quality, strong, linen and size A1. The map is delivered curled up and recommended to the buyer to flatten it "folding against" before using or pressing it again under some books. Alternatively, it can also be fixed to the table with a removable adhesive tape (crepe, for example). This last also has the advantage of not being accidentally moved. The map requires players to use their own game game material and some large expansions, so it is not an isolated product but a complement to play a variant of the base game with extra tiles.
