TP Management A a huge joke at this point. Go. Go now, and don't go back until he at least tried to read and understand all your tools. Some spells have a launch time of 3 seconds should go out without a hitch even as it moves continuously. Even without adjusting or compensating in any way and simply by taking the maximum of the negative side because it was simply bunging their keyboard, A still a significant DPS gain. This may not be the same person who A at the top of the DPS chart. MP management can actually be a problem, for A all the cards give are powerful enough that you're better playing them in hopes of getting a better card, on average. Towards the end of the expansion, when people have large quantities of secondary users, you can potentially reach 25% probability crit or more¹ from the state alone. The purpose of shields must not be efficient, but rather to do something that the rigens can not do: Increase your most effective strength¹ (EHP). Between reinvigoration, goad and tactical, TP was almost never a problem. Choose a sect that I touched this briefly in the General Guide, but let me write it here. Not all, perA2. You can save entire races. In particular, AAA is impossible to play a card without consuming the Royal Road effect currently active. The times of the stars should generally be the backbone of the healing plan, with other tools used to fill the gaps, because the power of damage is directly lost by losing the uses of the Earth Star. For everyone inside that bubble, it reduces incoming damage by 10% and applies an incredibly powerful HoT/regen effect. you can . Its just a fact of the game design. ÂÂ is unrealistic to present with precision how to handle cards in the opening entirely through the text, so Â composed a visual representation. They lose 10% of the power of that comboÂÂs, then 34 power in the worst case for a Ninja. As of patch 4.4, Collective Unconscious (and other similar ground effects) applies instantly when the capacity à is enabled, rather than waiting for the next tick on the server to apply the effects. It could also be used in terrible situations to inflict an increase, or multiple increases. He literally complains about making more DPS. Bard (and to a much lesser extent, Monk) uses Spear ridiculously well, depending on where they are in their rotation, due to of the criteriaâ € The swift say that it should remain unused. Here it is. Even Swiftcast / LightSpeed + Benefic II is going to be a full second slower due to the animation locks. Because you have 5 total cards to play in the opener, assuming you started the pull with one card prepped and Draw back off cooldown, and Divination only requires 3 seals, you will generally be using 2 MAs somewhere in the opener. The opportunity cost is greater than anything you stand to gain, so you are ultimately better off not playing it at all. It¢ÄÄÄs also muddled by the fact that certain circumstances can potentially negate most of the Arrow, namely unfortunately timed mechanics while the card is out. If you already have an Expanded Royal Road in preparation for playing an AoE damage card, playing that Bole has the associated opportunity cost of losing that Royal Road, which likely means less damage contribution overall. The only time you would detonate it before it has charged is if you have absolutely no choice in order to prevent deaths, or if the damage would otherwise be wasted due to the enemy becoming untargetable or dying. We have quite a few unique strengths, actually, though not all of them are widely understood just yet¢ÃÂÂparticularly mobility. As you gain experience, you¢ÃÂÂl begin to understand edge cases like these, or you will at least become aware of certain situations where you¢ÃÂÂre unsure of what to do, at which point you can think it through on your own or come ask on The Balance. Shields. Simply put, spells are actions that are on the GCD. If they are attacking quickly enough, they can refresh Dragon Kick and Twin Snakes every third rotation, which means more Bootshine and True Strike, which is a raw potency gain over Dragon Kick and Twin Snakes. Arrow Let me begin by saying that Arrow is unequivocally a good card, despite what people say about it. Astrologian $\tilde{A}\tilde{A}\tilde{S}$ role in the game is defined by its mobility, unique oGCDs, and above all else, cards. 25% crit rate from stats would put your crit At 1.6, then the astrology work design work, work actively enough to make Bole a hard card to use. The arrow does not affect points or OGCDs. And, while the buff card breaks to their pet, the pet does not actually attack faster¹ (unless they have a lot of speed spells for some reason or consider the convener an advanced arrow, which you should certainly not do) because their é¢ â¥GCD Tiers "are so far away. The celestial opposition can² extend the reviewer over the whole part, which is particularly crazy for collective unconscious. My objective here is to provide general guidelines for the use of the card. As with most things, the cards are extremely situational, so there are very few (if any) absolute rules. Count as an entity It's unique and separate from ourselves, but it scales back with our statistics like a pet. Any buff with a freephone number (indicating that A" was applied by you) can be extended, including the giving position, the statistical potions, the hundredth, the eyes for the eye, synastria, sprint, the timer on your earthly star, and even Protect and food enthusiasts. Some combination of more pietà more and a little less speed spells. As mentioned above, black magician, samurai and monk all use the arrow exceptionally well because of the way their kits work. The pet essentially only controls whether it can attack every 0.5 seconds, so the arrow should push them over a 0.5 second interval to make them attack faster¹, which A" well beyond ciA² which A" the result under normal circumstances. Because of ciA², when applying pre-removable shields, Custom for astrologer Apply screens in the night sect and does not take a GCD to use. SEC SCAMAGE / STANCANCE BALANCE Astrological shields are slightly stronger strong Scholars' shield, with the sole exception of a critical adloguy. If you can manage a small adjustment in the times of your heavenly opposition so you can extend the cards and/or understand with it, by all means, do it. Ciò means you don't have to channel at all to get the effects. This change was intended to alleviate the egregious violation of human rights that A" was the 4.0 AST OGCD clipping Nightmare, which was in turn a result of the extreme reduction of our instant spells that could be used to freely weave the ORCDS, coupled with the massive increase in the number of OGCDs we needed to weave. But if you can't prolong the lucid dream, A is likely to be for a very bad time. If you're not familiar with what² you do your skills, you don't need this guide yet. Before I talk about how you use Lightspeed does not inherently do you more damage¹. If your group A" too insecure to even play the game without their shield nappies, you have to decide what you like the most: your principles or the clear. Of course, you will get more power¹ if you leave the tank a little low before using it, but Â keep it too long just to squeeze a little more power¹.
